Monday Frank Daw disposed of a number of pure bred Shorthorn over cacille to R. S. Hiskayne, proprietor of the Pieneer Meat Market. Several years ago Mr. Oaw purchased a pure bred Shorthorn bull from the Piene of Wales ranch and started to raise pure bred stock. He is now reaping the reward for going into the raising of bette, class beef cattle. The stock disposed of Monday is to udeap-whomas tim has etaol t known as baby beef and range age from 16 to 18 months. The, price realized for them was much higher than for ordinary beef cattle. Sereb cattle at the age mentioned above weigh about 700 pounds while the Shorthorns a little more than 1000 pounds, showing that they are heavy beef cattle for their age.

Mr. Daw always sells his cattle to the Pioneer Meat Market for local consumption and believes that the local people appreciate high, quality meats as well as anyone in the country.

A Record Of Service

Forty-four years as member of any parliament, even in the inconspic-tions role of a back-bencher, would be an impressive record of service and sendurance. It would indicate, at the very least, a tremendous capacity to resist boredom and endure platitude.

Forty-four years as member of the British parliament, where the M.P.'s job is pretty much a full-time affair, is almost a transcendant feat, for, at Westminster, oratorical standards differ but little from those of parliaments and legislatures nearer home.

Forty-four years as member of the British parliament, thirty of them in the very forefront of polemical politics, twenty of them in the role of an imperial as well as a national figure, and, at least ten of them as a world luminary, represents something, however, which cannot be judged by ordinary criteria.

Forty-four years as member of the British parliament, during eighteer or so a member of the cabinet and six of them spent as wart-time premier, the dynamic centre of a whirling world—that is the consummate achievement which fell to the lot of a little Welsh lawyer.

David Lloyd George: Perhaps it was unnecessary to mention the name for, were it posed to any group of intelligent citizens within the British empire, it is doubtful if the juxtaposition of "forty-four years" with "war-time premier" in the question, would fail to elicit the right answer.

empire, it is doubtful if the juxtaposition of "forty-four years" with "wartime premier" in the question, would fall to elicit the right answer.

David Lloyd George has just celebrated his forty-fourth year as member of the British parliament. In that long term, the little Weish lawyer who entered the portals of the "Mother of Parliaments" with none of that political background which, prior to his advent, was deemed essential to ministerial rank, has run the full gamut of political achievement; has scaled, the dizzy heights and been dashed from them; has taated the sweet fruits of popular acclaim and the bitter of obloquy. Spectacular always, in success as in defeat, his is perhaps the most amazing personality in its very contradictions of a generation replete with outstanding figures.

To-day, in the quieter nooks of political like, the old fires burn dimbut they still burn. The flash of those "Limehouse" days which added a word to the Brigilsh language is recalled, ever and non, as he asseverates warnings and behests a beediess world heeds not. From the couch of the prophet, or the desk of the mentor, he sallies, occasionally, to guide and to counsel those who, caught in the full shood of the stream, pay little attention, to what adumbrates the stiller eddies of the backwaters. In sickness or in health, one word of contuning brings the old fires forth. Jove still can thunder—objugations!

His attendance at sittings of parliaments is rarer than it used to be,

t thunder—objurgations:

His attendance at sittings of parliaments is rarer than it used to be, a strange reaction follows his periodic entries. Be the debate never so it, when Lloyd George appears members rouse themselves from lethargy of prepare for action. Imperceptibly, a ripple animates the house; etctity is in the air. Lloyd George has entered Surely here, despite the fact, whirling world has thrown him from the vortex, is anything but a spent

Two or three weeks ago, he celebrated the forty-fourth anniversary of his election to parliament. If he were asked what is his fondest recollection over all those years, undoubtedly, his answer would be: it had been given him to retain the respect, the loyalty, the confidence and the affection of his own constituency of Carnarvon. That is, perhaps, the most amazing feature of his samzing record. For forty-four years he has enjoyed the unbroken loyalty of his constituents. For forty-four years he has enjoyed their confidence, their respect and their affection. Surely no man could ask more. That is the mead of his service and the gauge of his success.

British Patent Office Turns Dow Many Gadgets Offered

Many Gadgets Offered

No fewer than 20,000 of the 33,696 inventions submitted to the British Patent Office in the past year were refused on grounds of impracticability. A gadget for capturing motor-bandits was an electrically motor-bandits was an electrically-operated harpoon that could be con-cealed in lamp-posts, so that when a stolen car was tearing down upon him, a foliceman had only to touch a switch to send the harpoon whizz-ing into its tires. Another lavention of a crook-catching window pase designed, upon being broken, to cre-ate an absolute vacuum which sum-marity and irresistibly drags the luckless cracksman into the room and lays him prostrate on the carpet until someone opens the door.

Wonderful Collection

Seven Thousand Varleties
The most enthusiastic butterfly hanter who ever lived, a Swiss named Hans Fruhstorfer, made a wonderful collection of 100,000 butterflies, and this has been lent to the Natural History Museum in Paris.
He began his collection in Brazil,
when he was tweatly-two years old.
Then took his net to Java, where he apent three years; then he followed his pursuit for two years in the Malay Archipeiago. He fravelied through South America, Japan, China and Siam, until he had placed his net over some of the rarest butterflies in the world. His 100,000 apecimens have nearly 7,000 varieties.

Find Another "Dead Sea"

Not Exist
Another "dead sea" has been discovered—one which, unlike that in Palestine, is not open to the sky and in whose murky and mysterious depths moves no living thing.
It is far down in the ocean between Arabia and India. To depths of from 50 to 100 feet below the surface, the water teems with marine life. Below those levels life does not exist.

The discovery is due to the re-search of the expedition financed by the late Sir John Murray. The com-mander sent a fresh report to Prof. Stanley Gardiner, expedition secre-

mgs and exporations which are held to confirm a previously reported identification of this coean area with the vanished continent of Gondwana-land or Lemuria, the home of mon-strous, scaly reptites which vanished when the earth sank—probably ow-ing to volcanic action—millions of years ago.

Mr. Edwards' invention, he claims

Mr. Edwards' invention, he claims will detect any overheating and is so constructed that the air will be automatically released from the train to apply the air brake if the fournal is hot enough to require attention. The device, attached to a railway car with the conventional air brake system, detects overheating by means of fuse caps with hugs having a composition which will melt at a a predetermined high temperature. Within the fuse plug is inserted a smaller plug which will melt and permit a slight flow of air to escape thus causing light application of the brakes.

Labor officials and railwaymen in Winnipeg think the invention is not only workable but express surprise it had not been thought of before.

The straight line

The geometrical axiom that the straight line is the shortest distance between two points is equally true of advertising. Advertising offers the shortest route between seller and buyer.

Reading advertisements saves time. By reading the advertisements in your newspaper you learn of the things you want and need; you learn where they are for sale and for how much. The advertisements enable you to weigh and choose even before you lay down your paper.

Advertisements are money savers because they enable you to secure better quality for the money you invest. They enable your dollar to purchase its full value in merchandise. Adevtisements will keep you posted on every development that affects you, your wife and children, your home and your business
